That airplanes are constantly reaching a larger scope in peace time and commercial industries is indicated by E. C. Allen, of the Paige Sales and Service company in El Paso, who has returned from a trip to Chicago and Detroit, where he obtained the southwestern agency for the Haviland airplanes.

Mr. Allen is looking over territory adjacent to El Paso with a view of selecting a suitable landing field, where an airfield will be erected to house the planes.

Two Types of De Haviland D-H 4

Two types of De Haviland D-H 4, which uses an eight cylinder air-cooled engine of English design. The latter machine is a smaller type than the former, and is considered more suitable to commercial purposes because it can land and "take off" in small fields and requires less housing space.

First shipment of airplanes are expected to arrive June 1. A special airplane export and assembler from Cleveland, who is connected with the De Haviland company, will be here to supervise the work of assembling planes, alignment and installation of motors.

While in the east, Mr. Allen visited the Paige factory, and stated the company is enlarging its plant. More than 27 acres of ground is now covered with various buildings of the plant, he says.

you are in favor of ratifying the treaty of peace with the league of nations incorporated just as it came from Versailles, and as it was submitted to the senate.

"Are you in favor of entering the league with article ten in it without any change or modification thereof, or without any reservation as to the obligation of the United States in enforcing the treaty?"

"I understand from your speech that you are thoroughly in favor of the ratification of the league which gives British empire six votes to the United States one vote. Am I correct in understanding your position?"

"Are you opposed to permitting the question of whether or not we shall become a member of the league to be submitted to the people in any way? If you are not opposed to submitting it to the people, I ask in what way you would suggest that it be submitted?"

TROOPS DEBATED FOR REBEL BID

"Intolerable conditions which have covered a period of nearly 10 years reached the apex of their shameful and horror, as viewed from the American conception of justice and the chamber of commerce."

Gen. Howze, who has been the principal witness before the subcommittee here so far, gave both secret and public testimony in a conference with members of the senate subcommittee just before he gave his public testimony.

The general discussed the Mexican situation with the investigators and is believed to have outlined what he believes to be the solution of the neighboring republic's difficulties. That he believes this solution can be worked out by Mexico alone became evident when he made a formal statement at an open session of the subcommittee, in which he said that if left solely in the hands of Mexico, the future of that country was hopeless.

A formal statement was prepared and read into the record by the general, who first obtained the permission of the senate subcommittee. First, he said that since 1917 11 persons had been killed and 11 wounded on this side of the line by Mexican troops.

The commanding officer's statement follows: "On and on during the last four years I have had peculiar advantage in being able to see and to know the things, so far as concerns Mexicans and foreign owned property, which have happened on this side of the Rio Grande and in Mexico."

"I will not undertake to describe them—they are too numerous to describe. I already have many conclusions as to the situation. The intolerable conditions which have covered a period of nearly ten years have continually grown worse, and I am convinced the present situation is a horror, as viewed from the American conception of justice and decency, was rather a conservation of health in the broadest sense."

The medal, by Fyke, is a work of art as extraordinary as it is beautiful.
